Harnessing the Power of Crowd for Human-centered Computing and AI Systems

About the Speaker

Dong Wang is a professor at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign's School of Information Sciences, where his research focuses on social sensing, human-centered AI, and big data analytics. With over 200 peer-reviewed publications and three influential books, including his most recent work, "Social Intelligence (2025)", his innovations in social computing have been widely adopted across academia, industry, and government labs. A highly decorated scholar, Dr. Wang has received the NSF CAREER Award, the Google Faculty Research Award, and several prestigious Best Paper honors from conferences such as ASONAM and RTAS. Beyond his research, he is an IEEE Senior Member who contributes to the field as an associate editor for IEEE Transactions on Big Data and other leading journals.
